

ABSTRACT

Transition from military to civilian life: the case of statutory and non-statutory forces in a democratic South Africa

By Guy Lamb
Senior Researcher
Centre for Conflict Resolution
University of Cape Town

This paper will critically analyse the manner in which demobilisation and reintegration support programmes have been envisaged and implemented, and will make recommendations for future programmes. It will be based on the analysis of the results of a recent in-depth study into the transition from military to civilian life of different types of ex-combatants in South Africa by the Centre for Conflict Resolution.